SASSY LITIGATIONS

Sassy Litigations law firm operates in flat fees and under an unbundled services model.

What is Unbundled?

Unbundled or "A La Carte" services allows clients to only pay for services they need. Whether that is having an attorney review paperwork, draft documents, or help you prepare or represent you for a hearing or trial. The best part of unbundled services is the client has control over their finances. The attorney only represents you for that one service while you handle other parts of the case on your own. You can view several of these fees here.

Consultations and Flat Fees

Unlike most law firms Sassy Litigations does not require a retainer or charge by the hour.

All of our fees, including our unbundled fees above, are flat rate. You will know how much your case will cost. For contested cases flat fees are determined after a paid 50 minute, $150, consultation. Are you technologically savvy? If so you can save on your consultation, $120 for virtual consultations. You can upload documents through a secure portal and we conduct the consultation via video conference or phone. You never have to leave your home or office. Consultations are also used to gather information. It gives you a chance to learn more about the law and the process before you make a decisions on your family law case. We understand that getting away for a consultation can be hard, so it may be possible for us to come to you.

After the Consultation

Once the consultation is completed we will have a better idea of what your flat fee will be. If you decide that Sassy Litigations is the firm for you then a fee agreement will be sent. As soon as it is signed and payment has been received your case will begin. Once you become a client of Sassy Litigations the case will be handled through a secure portal where you can send messages, upload documents, and pay your bill. You will create a special login so that you are able to log on see updates, messages, documents and more.

Family Law

A family law case can be complex and involves emotions, finances, and more. Whether you are trying to get some information, looking at handling it yourself, or are ready to hire an attorney. Sassy Litigations can help.
